Bachelor of Natural
Environment and Wilderness

📍 Colorado State University, USA

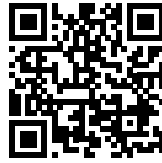

"Go big or go home. If you're going to do it, be prepared to really immerse yourself in the new place! It's often easy to just stay in your comfort zone and hang out with the first people you meet through the exchange program. But branch out! Meet locals! When opportunities come up, take them!"

Where can you go?

The University of Tasmania has partnered with highly ranked and prestigious universities all over the world. Some of which offer scholarships.

What programs are available?

SEMESTER PROGRAMS

You can gain credit back towards your degree by studying at one of our partner universities. If being totally immersed in a new culture sounds appealing, why not try a semester exchange?

 Location: Asia Pacific, Europe, North America, The United Kingdom

 Duration: 1 – 2 semesters

 Fees: Continue paying your University of Tasmania tuition fees. Students are responsible for funding lights, accommodation, cost of living etc.

 Budget: We recommend that you budget between A$12,000 – A$15,000 per semester.

SHORT-TERM PROGRAMS

Love the idea of overseas study but can't commit to a full semester? A short-term program is perfect!

 Location: Worldwide

 Duration: 2 – 6 weeks

 Fees: Depending on the program, you will either continue paying regular tuition fees, or pay fees directly to the provider.

 Budget: We recommend that you budget approx. A$1,000 per week.

UniGO: Global Opportunity

A fully funded, overseas student elective with a sustainability focus. The University Global Opportunity Program (UniGO) is a new 25 credit point elective unit where you'll explore the connections between place, culture, technology and sustainability, travelling for approximately three weeks over your summer break.

Fully-funded overseas experience

We pay for your flights accommodation, visas, insurance, internal transport and meals.*

Experience sustainability in action

Work with local leaders and learn about sustainability efforts through the context of your host-country.

Expand your career prospects

Enhance your employability skills with cross-cultural awareness and international project experience.

Imogen

Bachelor of Arts

📍 University of Exeter, United Kingdom

“Do EVERYTHING you have the chance to! Say yes to every opportunity you’re given (within reason obviously). If you’re invited to a party, GO! If you’re invited to a society event or a sport’s club game, GO! If you’re invited on a day trip, GO! I don’t regret anything I did, but I do regret opportunities I passed up on because I was tired or studying too hard. Take some risks (again within reason), because you might not get another chance to be somewhere where you’re a complete stranger and have a clean slate. That’s actually really liberating.”
